

The Southern Exposition at Louisville.

The Southern Exposition will be held at Louisville, Ky., beginning August 1, 1883, and continuing one hundred days. At the time of this writing, over $252,000 have been subscribed by the people of Louisville and is now being paid in and new subscriptions are being received daily.

That Louisville was in earnest in undertaking the great exposition ever held in this country, except the National Centennial Exposition of 1876, is evidenced by the fact that her own people have freely supplied all the means required, and no outside assistance has been solicited.

Whatever ample means, earnestness and activity can do to make a great Exposition will be done, and all that the people who have thus furnished the means ask of the National Government, the States and the people of our country is that they will give moral aid and encouragement to the enterprise, that they will bring to it exhibits of their products, their manufactures, their machinery and their arts, and that they will come in person and see this exhibition of the arts and industries of the various sections of our land.

The scale on which this Exposition will be conducted may be inferred from the fact that the main building, now in progress, is 900 by 600 feet, covering about thirteen acres, with an appropriation of over $150,000 for the cost of erection, with the necessary machinery and interior development provided for at additional cost. A comparative estimate of the extent of this building may be drawn from the statement that the great International Cotton Exposition at Atlanta in 1881 covered only eight acres. The only change that can now be made in the dimensions of the building will be to extend wings from the south side so as to increase the area for exhibitions.

Fourth street is the great retail street of Louisville, and is the most popular and fashionable promenade. At the southern end of the customary promenade, and in the midst of the most fashionable residence part of the city, lies Central Park—a pleasure ground of eighteen acres, unequalled by any park in the world for the size and magnificence of its forest trees. Central Park lies between Fourth and Sixth streets, and is now directly reached by horse-car lines on those streets, and running beyond the park. This park will constitute the northern inclosure of the Exposition grounds, and the northern front of the main building will be on its southern line. Arrangements are now progressing for bringing every horse-car line in the city directly to the Exposition entrances, and on the southern line of the grounds the Louisville and Nashville Railroad will erect a railway station, at which passengers from any part of the United States may be landed within 200 or 300 feet of one of the Exposition entrances.

In the past few years Louisville has become one of the most important railroad centers in America, and its geographical position so favors the advantage of its railroad connections that it is but one night in a sleeper from almost every important city in the United States. A more central point geographically, or one more accessible by easy travel, could not be found, and the fact that it stands on the border line between the North and the South, and between the East and the West, makes it an appropriate place for the several sections to gather and exhibit to each other the particular products of their industry.

HOWELL'S MEMORIAL.

The San Francisco Chronicle, in noticing the joint memorial and resolution of Assemblyman Howell asking Congress to make an appropriation for the improvement of the Colorado river, says: "Among the rivers of the Pacific Coast, south of Alaska, the Colorado ranks second to the Columbia only in its length and volume of water. And yet, owing to the existence of sand-bars of ancient formation, it is not navigable for steamboats much above Fort Yuma save at a high stage of water. All that is asked for is the removal of these obstructions from Fort Yuma up to Riverville, at the junction of the Rio Virgen and the Colorado. We are of the opinion that the object sought is worth the amount asked, and we hope our Senators and Representatives in Congress will cordially second the request of the Nevada Legislature."

U. S. Senator Fair, of Nevada, is attending to his private business in San Francisco this winter instead of being in his seat at Washington. The Nevada Senators have a way of shirking their official duties which should call for indignant protests from their constituents. —Grass Valley Union.

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION.

Congressman Cassidy, in perfect forgetfulness that at the session of 1881 the Legislature asked for an appropriation of $350,000 for the improvement of the Colorado river, gave as a reason for voting against the River and Harbor bill, that "his was the only State and he the only Congressman" that had no interest in the bill, and that "there were no rivers or harbors in Nevada," meaning thereby that no aid was needed from the National Government so far as Nevada was concerned. Immediately after his re-election he told a Chicago reporter that the only stream in Nevada was "the two-foot one coming out of the Sutro tunnel." Within sixty days the Legislature of Nevada meets, and by a unanimous vote in the Senate and Assembly pass Howell's resolution asking Congress for $125,000 for the improvement of the Colorado. Close upon the heels of this action the Congressman's own paper, the Eureka Sentinel, comes out boldly and endorses the action of the State Legislature, and hopes it "will meet with the generous consideration of our National Legislature," even going so far as to say "it asks for an appropriation for an internal improvement, the only one ever asked for by our State. In fact, while millions have been expended in nearly every other State of the Union for the development of internal resources, Nevada has never received a cent of Government aid in this way." It gives its proprietor some interesting information in its concluding remarks, which are as follows: "Mines that might be made to pay handsomely, and about which thriving towns would grow up, are now worthless, as the cost of transportation of supplies into this remote region from the railroads north and the freight of bullion back, more than eat up all the profits. In a word a portion of Uncle Sam's territory, which has a splendid outlook, if fostered by the Government, languishes, and is terra incognita to all but the bold prospectors and scientists who have explored it and confirm by the statement of facts the reports of its magnificent resources. It is to be hoped and expected, that Congress will favorably consider Nevada's appeal in this matter, which is of much importance to our State." We are afraid that Congressman Cassidy will never warm a seat in the Senate chamber unless he profits by the suggestions made by his home editor.

ELLIS' OPINION.

Col. A. C. Ellis, one of the Democratic leaders of Nevada, has always been regarded as one of the most bitter anti-monopolists in the State. Still he does not lend himself to every measure simply because somebody dubs it "anti-monopoly." Four years ago he testified before the Senate Committee on Railroads that the so-called Lewis bill was unconstitutional, and during the present session furnished Senator Brumsey the following opinion upon the Smyth bill.

CARSON, Feb. 9, 1883.
Honorable Mr. Brumsey—Dear Sir: I have at your request, examined Senate bill No. 28, and I have become satisfied from an examination of decided cases bearing upon this character of legislation that the bill, if enacted into a law, cannot stand.

It deals, and of course it intended to deal, with the case of a corporation which is a citizen of California, entering into a contract with a citizen of some other State in the Union, to transport freight to a point in Nevada from some place outside of the State of Nevada. Here the contract in question would be made, for a lawful purpose, between citizens or persons of different States, and outside of the confines of this State, and it is plain to my mind that the State of Nevada cannot pass any law to inhibit the performance of such contract by the carrier, or to punish the contracting or performing parties for executing the contract.

I think it is open to criticism that such law would impair the obligation of the contract, and that it is a regulation of interstate commerce, and would be held unconstitutional by the Courts for these reasons. I came to this conclusion four years ago, upon a similar measure, and have reluctantly arrived at the same conclusion again. I have not the time to cite and discuss the authorities which, in my judgment, control the questions but will be glad to give you a list of the same if you so desire. Yours, etc., A. C. ELLIS.

The Senate Judiciary Committee has agreed to report for passage a bill providing for the purchase from George Washington Parke Curtis Lee, of the entire Arlington estate, comprising 1,100 acres near Washington City and including the National Cemetery, at a cost of $150,000. The accrued taxes of $15,000 are to be paid by General Lee.

In the California Senate the resolution of the Legislature of Nevada, concerning sawdust being deposited in the Truckee, has been referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

The taxpayers of Nye have agreed to ask the Legislature to authorize the Commissioners to raise an additional tax of $1 to apply toward the payment of the county debt.

A Relationship Puzzle.

Steve Popovich, of the Wine House, sends the Enterprise the following:

Some years ago, while residing in Ismailia, in Egypt, I one day happened to pass two Egyptian ladies on the boulevard, one of whom carried an infant in her arms, when I overheard the following curious conversation between them: The lady carrying the infant, of which she was the mother, remarked to her companion, "In what relation to you does this baby son of mine stand?" whereupon the other replied, "He is my grandson and brother to my husband." Cannot some of the many readers of the Enterprise, especially those having a weakness for tracing pedigrees up to the thirtieth and fortieth consanguinity, unravel this curious riddle in relationship?

THE FISH-KILLING SAWDUST.

Nevada's Request of California.

Annexed is the full text of the joint resolution, introduced by Speaker Varian, and passed by our Legislature, requesting legislation from California to prohibit sawdust from being emptied into the Truckee:

WHEREAS, The Truckee river has its source in Lake Tahoe, and its outlet in Lake Pyramid, flowing a distance of nearly 200 miles in the States of California and Nevada; and,

Whereas, The waters of said lakes and river are teeming with trout and food fishes; and,

Whereas, At certain seasons of the year the trout in great numbers are running up said river, from its outlet to its source, for the purpose of spawning; and,

Whereas, The presence of sawdust in the waters of said river tends to destroy trout and food fishes; and,

Whereas, The waters of said river have been for many years, and now are, made available by the citizens of this State for irrigating and domestic purposes, through the medium of canals and irrigating ditches, which convey the waters of said river to the adjacent lands, whereby desert wastes have been, and are being, reclaimed, and whereby large and constantly increasing crops of cereals, grasses and vegetable have been, and are now being, cultivated; and,

Whereas, The prosperity, happiness and welfare of a large proportion of the citizens of this State are dependent upon the continued purity and volume of the waters of said river; and,

Whereas, Certain corporations, firms and individuals, citizens and residents of the neighboring State of California, have been for years, and now are engaged in lumbering and milling lumber within the borders of said State, and on or contiguous to said river, and have been, and now are, accustomed to deposit in great quantities all waste and sawdust which are procured by such lumbering and milling operations, into the waters of said river; and,

Whereas, Said waste and sawdust is carried by the waters of said river through its entire length and through the ditches and canals used for irrigating purposes as aforesaid upon the valuable farming and grazing lands of the people of this State, and spread over the surface thereof, thereby year by year making the same less valuable and available for agricultural purposes; and,

Whereas, A large portion of the available agricultural land of this State along the line of said river has already been rendered absolutely valueless, as a fish-producing stream, because of the premises aforesaid; and,

Whereas, The depositing of waste material and sawdust in the said Truckee river is, and will necessarily continue to be, an intolerable nuisance to the people of this State; therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Assembly and Senate of the State of Nevada, conjointly: That the Honorable the Legislature of the State of California be, and it is hereby respectfully requested, to consider the premises and to prevent by appropriate enactment the depositing of any waste materials or sawdust in the Truckee river by any persons, corporations, or firms, engaged in lumbering or milling lumber within the borders of said State; and it is further

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to cause a duly authenticated copy of this joint resolution to be transmitted to His Excellency the Governor of the State of California, with the request that the same be presented to the Legislature of that State at his earliest convenience.

The Reek-Enterprise Case.

The Eureka Leader is informed by Messrs. Baker & Wines that the demurrer, as also a motion to strike out, in the Reek-Enterprise libel case comes up for hearing at Virginia City on the 21st instant. A Religious Venture.

Parson Dan De Quille, of the Enterprise, discourses as follows: "Rev. W. C. Gray, of Carson, has gone down to Reno to prospect for the color of righteousness. He will preach every evening at the Methodist Church, and after the service there will be a praise revival each evening. Could he bring the gospel to bear upon the Renosites by some hydraulic process and play it upon and into them through a two-inch nozzle, knocking them over, washing them up against and forcing them to cling to the 'Rock of Ages,' he might do something—might even bring Jim Townsend 'up out of the mire and clay'—but ordinary ground-sludging will be a mere waste of the 'waters of life.' What the Renosites need is the 'Salvation Army' from the big hydraulic claims of Grass Valley and Nevada City, Cal., and they should come around with their most powerful 'monitors.'"

Deacon Parkinson, of Carson, thinks there is hope for Reno. He declares as follows: "Rev. W. C. Gray, of Carson, has gone to Reno for the purpose of attempting to convert the heathenish dwellers in that riverside town. Mr. G. will preach every evening at the Methodist Church and after the service there will be a praise revival meeting each evening. Friend Gray is a young man and very pleasing preacher, moreover he is a mighty wrestler with old Satan, but the task he has now undertaken is certainly of the heroic kind, and during the entire week the earnest prayers of the Carsonites ought to be sent up for the protection of the reverend gentleman from assassination or at least the tar barrel. Mr. G. is too good a man to be sacrificed in so utterly utter a sinful community as that of Reno."

The Great Mississippi.

Some interesting and extraordinary data have just been compiled respecting the Mississippi river. It appears that it boasts no fewer than 55 tributary streams, with a total length of navigation of 16,571 miles, or about two-thirds of the distance around the world. Even this, however, represents, but a small amount of the navigation which will follow when the Federal Government has made the contemplated improvements in the upper Mississippi. In the Minnesota, Wisconsin and other rivers, in which it is now engaged. But while the Mississippi has 16,571 miles navigable to steamboats, it has 20,221 miles navigable to barges. This navigation is divided between twenty-two States and Territories in the following proportions: Louisiana, 2,600 miles; Arkansas, 2,100; Mississippi, 1,380; Montana, 1,310; Dakota, 1,280; Illinois, 1,270; Tennessee, 1,260; Kentucky, 1,260; Indiana, 840; Iowa, 810; Indian Territory, 270; Minnesota, 660; Wisconsin, 560; Ohio, 550; Texas, 440; Nebraska, 400; West Virginia, 390; Pennsylvania, 380; Kansas, 280; Alabama, 200, and New York, 70. Nearly all sections of these States and Territories can be reached with ease. Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Montana, Dakota and the Indian Territory possess more miles of navigable stream than miles of railroad, all of which are open to everybody who wishes to engage in commerce.

Strength of the Railroad Lobby.

A gentleman who has been working at Washington this session in the interest of several bills says: "I have come to the conclusion that there is no hope of passing Reagan's or any other bill regulating railroad traffic or inter-State commerce. The fact is the railroads are too strong for us here and we may as well recognize that now as at any other time. All railroad corporations, especially the great trunk and Pacific roads, are represented here by active and influential lobbies. They have means and facilities at their disposal, in the way of passes to members of Congress and their families for summer trips, that we have not and cannot expect to have. They have beaten us and have power enough to keep us benten for the balance of the session. The far West and Pacific coast will have to grin and bear it, for most of the anti-railroad members have forgotten that they have ever promised to stand and vote with the people instead of the corporations."

REGENERATION OF NEVADA.

An Effort to Transform the Silver State Into Another California—A Broad Scheme to Revive a Dying Commonweath.

[Carson Cor. S. F. Bulletin.]

Happening upon a recent file of the New York Herald, I read a complaint in regard to the fact that "a defunct mining camp" is now represented in the Senate of the United States by two Senators. I have read many articles in the Bulletin heretofore which seemed to me to indicate clearly the duty of Nevada's Legislature, in order that her natural wealth in agricultural capacity might be opened, and she might withdraw from the roll of "defunct mining camps." I have read in your columns facts and warranted statements regarding the facilities for stock-raising, and possibilities for agricultural improvement within the borders of the Silver State and in the heart of the "great American desert," which have excited much comment. The days of '49 have passed for California, and nuggets are no longer relied upon to supply to the State its wealth and taxable property. Nevada must profit by the same experience. The world-wide fame of the new Ophir is wanting, and beneath the sagebrush where the trade dollar was found, we must look for that wealth which is to establish a permanent and prosperous population and perpetuate a State.

You are familiar, no doubt, with the legislation which has covered our statute books with measures calculated to foster and encourage the mining industry. The broad acres of sage-brush land have waited for the appointed time, and it is near at hand. The agriculture of Nevada was originally limited to the grass covered wild lands which bordered our natural water courses. The limit disappeared when it was demonstrated that the best land in the State, the strongest and warmest soil, was under the sagebrush. From that day individual effort has accomplished its utmost in the endeavor to make the desert waste productive. As a result the fact may be cited that the only agricultural county of the State has to-day more taxable property than any other, and at the same time pays a lesser rate of taxation. The time has come, and proof has been made, that water is the wealth of Nevada. Witness the result of individual effort on the banks of the Carson, Humboldt, Truckee, Ruby, White, Paradise and Walker rivers in this State. Water is also, too, the question of prime importance which engrosses the attention of California statesmen to-day. The State of Nevada has the right of selection and sale in and to 2,000,000 acres of land by grant from the general Government. There are millions of inches of water running to waste annually through natural channels. Senator Marker's bill proposes to connect these two sources of wealth, thereby providing for sale of school lands, increasing taxable property and population of the State, and providing a permanent income for the purposes of State government and future growth. The passage of this bill will immediately add 200,000 acres to the area of land now under active cultivation within the State, and provide a fund for similar improvements in the counties of Humboldt, Douglas, Ormsby, Esmeralda and Elko. Remembering that many useful lessons which you have read to us, I am inclined to think that the seed has at last fallen upon good ground, and that Senator Marker's idea may solve for us the problem of Nevada's State sovereignty for all time. It is certainly a far-reaching measure towards the policy which has made great States, and which will at least enable Nevada to live and move within the constellation.
